MRS. DAVIS PLEASED

STUDENT OF INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS DEPT. WINS ESSAY PRIZE.

Mrs. Julia L. Davis, state chairman of the International Relations department of the Indiana Federation of Clubs, is rejoicing over the fact that an Indiana club woman and a student of this department, Mrs. George L. Jaqua of Winchester, has won first prize in a national essay contest sponsored by the General Federation of Woman's Clubs, on the subject "How to Build the World Society." It was taken from the book "Building the World Society" by Laura Mapes McMullen.

The prize, which is a trip to the Orient, was awarded Mrs. Jaqua the biennial meeting of the General Federation at Seattle, Wash., last week. Dr. Pitman Potter of the department of political science of the University of Wisconson pronounced the essay an excellent one.

Since assuming her duties, Mrs. Davis has insistently urged International Relations groups over the state to include the use of Mrs. McMullen's book, which embodies studies in the basic realities of society, in their programs, thus availing themselves of the opportunity of taking part in the contest, and she is naturally gratified that as a result, the honor of winning the coveted prize has come to an Indiana woman.

WOULD SPEED TRIAL

HEART BALM, SUIT OF NURSE AGAINST EVANGELIST'S HUSBAND COSTLY.

Los Angeles, June 25—(AP)—The tearful description of the love scenes in the alleged broken romance of David Hutton, singer, and Myrtle Joan St. Pierre, nurse, is taking too much time, Judge Lester Roth believes.

"This trial is costing the county a lot of money and it ought to be expedited," said the trial judge after the pretty, brunette nurse completed her third day on the witness stand in her $200,000 suit for alleged breach of promise against the husband of Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist.

A fainting spell, sobbing and heated denials punctuated her story yesterday. In tears she admitted association with other men, after prolonged cross examination by Hutton's attorney.

Her last meeting with Hutton before his marriage was sobbingly described. He came, she said, only to retrieve a copy of "The Strange Death of President Harding" which he had leaned her, and didn't even kiss her hand.

Miss St. Pierre will again take the stand when court reopens Monday. She filed the suit against Hutton following his marriage to the evangelist.

"CHILDREN'S DAY"

AT EUCHARISTIC CONGRESS—100,000 GATHER FOR SPECIAL SERVICES.

Dublin, June 25.—(AP)—A shrill cascade of starch and bright eyes —white dresses and white ribbons and white sashes—spilled into the majestic, colorful pageant of the eucharistic congress today.

It was the children's day.

From all over Ireland—and some from far lands away—they came, a stream of childish treble until 100,000 stood in orderly groups before the white high altar in Phoenix park.

By 10 a. m.—an hour before the solemn pontifical high mass began —Dublin seemed a city of children and the avenue leading to the park was almost a solid stream of bobbing heads of motor cars filled with them.

In the park, Cardinal Lauri, the Pope's representative at the congress, celebrated the mass.

Tomorrow the congress will end with a pontifical high mass which 1,000,000 persons are expected to attend.

STYLES IN NEW YORK

Dull, chalky suede-like fabrics continue to hold the spotlight of midsummer fashions. New York shops are featuring them not only in smart evening and daytime clothes but in such important accessories as handbags and hats. A leading Fifth Avenue shop with a reputation for distinctive handbags is displaying a particularly "smart line of such bags just now in these dull, chalky, silky-looking acele fabrics in pique weaves. In white and in pastel shades, they are designed on simple lines in the favored back-strap envelope and shallow pouch styles, with rayon satin and taffeta linings. Trims and clasps are of composition, white being preferred.

White fabric hats are particularly important. In Briella Cord and other dull, chalk fabrics, they are favored for the mid-summer frock. The shallow-crown, narrow-brim, stitched-sailor and little gob turban are favorite sports styles. Trims, for the most part, are confined to tiny bows and bandings of grosgrain ribbon.

Olympic colors—blue, yellow, black and red—have given a new interest to summer costume jewelry. This combination of colors, which is particularly smart with the favored white sports costume, is featured in pyroxylin plastic materials in bracelets, necklaces and clips, as well as in trims for hats, handbags and belts.

Belts continue important in the summer mode. Cellophane in various woven versions is featured, as are also lacquered fabrics, patent leathers and the new, chalky, suede like fabrics matching the costume.

Red and white continues a favorite color combination for summer. The all-white dress with vivid red short jacket is important, as is also the Bordeaux red-and-white print.

Short transparent v .vet jackets and capelets in white, red and in pastel shades are featured in New York shops. Short puff sleeves characterize many of the jackets.

"Victorian violet," "Carmen" and "Pigeon" are important new summer colors—the first a purplish violet, "Carmen," a brilliant red and "Pigeon," a delicate pink.

For beachwear, the beach dress has gained in style importance over the pajama and the slacks-and-shirt ensemble. Fast-dyed ginghams in bold plaids and stripes are smart for these dresses. For beachwear, too, the pump and sports oxford are replacing the sandal.

Yellow and turquoise are featured among seashore togs and as smart contrast to suntan.

Both wide and narrow walc piques are important for summer sportswear. They are featured in both cotton and rayon fabrics.

Novel Shapes Give Buttons New Vogue

Piano Recital of Mrs. Finley Wins Praise

A company of friends that filled the auditorium of the Union Street Friends church attended the graduation piano recital given Friday evening by Mrs. Jacnacra S. Finley. The event marked the completion of her work in the Kokomo branch of the Sherwood Music School of Chicago, taught by Mrs. Edna S. Hite, and at the close of the recital Mrs. Finley was presented with her diploma from the main school.

The finished program, presented entirely from memory, gave evidence of diligent and faithful work on the part of both pupil and teacher. Mrs. Finley, who is an accomplished soprano singer as well as a pianist, interspersed her piano solos with vocal numbers which were highly enjoyable. The program was in every way worthy of being a graduation recital and brought forth the whole-hearted praise of the many friends present. Mrs. Finley gave additional interest to her program by preceding each number with a brief talk, explaining the character of the composition and telling some interesting fact about its composer.

Mrs. Hite played the piano accompaniments for the five vocal numbers and the violin obbligatos for two of them were played by Miss Vada Warne.

The church was beautifully decorated with baskets of summer flowers and Mrs. Finley was the recipient of several lovely bouquets during her program. The girls who served as ushers were presented with shoulder bouquets of roses and sweetpeas by Mrs. Finley.

Mrs. LoBerta Rockwood Walden of Joliet, Ill., a former Sherwood graduate under Mrs. Hite was among those attending the recital.

BUY OUTING TICKETS

PRISONERS IN CHICAGO JAIL WISH TO ATTEND PICNIC GIVEN BY SHERIFF.

Chicago, June 25.—(AP)—Who bought tickets to the sheriff's outing and picnic to be held July 9?

Why the prisoners. And are they going? Nobody knows, but many of them have engagements with judges and juries about that time which may spoil everything.

The prisoners' investments in the picnic business were revealed yesterday during questioning of two guards suspended pending an investigation as to how a gun was smuggled to a prisoner, James Lawrence. He recently killed a guard and himself.

One of the guards, Fred Studebaker, was found in possession of a book of picnic tickets, all but two of which had been sold.

"I sold 'em," he said, "up in tier C."

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of our dear boy Leon Roy Kulow, who was drown one year ago today.

We cannot say, we must not say.
That he is dead, he is just away:
With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand
He has wandered into an unknown land,
And left us dreaming how very fair
It needs must be, since he lingers there.
Think of him faring on, as dear
In the love of There as the love of Here:
Think of him still as the same, and say,
He is not dead—he is just away.

—Sadly missed by Mr. and Mrs. James Kulow and Family.

The World War benefitted at least one section of the creation; the whales were given some rest, and the 700,000 barrels produced in 1913 dropped to less than half, and even by 1919 there was only rather more than half of the pre-war production.
