Duke Ellington to Tour South

NEW YORK CITY.—After his week at the Orpheum Theatre in Boston, where he opened on July 13, Duke Ellington and his famous orchestra will invade the South for a tour of one night dance engagements.

Harlem's aristocrat of jazz will be seen and heard in Roanoke, Petersburg and Richmond, all in Virginia; in Durham and Goldsboro, North Carolina; in Columbia and Charlotte, South Carolina and in Charleston, W.Va.

Following this, the Ellington band will be featured for two days, July 28 and 29, at Castle Farms in Cincinnati, at which time radio listeners will hear it via WLW.
