Police Captain Has Lengthy Memory

WARWICK, R. I. (AP)—The long arm of the law happened to be exactly as long as Police Captain Sam Henderson's memory.

When he read that a man had been charged in nearby Providence with driving off with two tons of the city's coal, Henderson's memory guided his hand to a dusty warrant which had laid in his desk for ten years.

Result: The culprit paid an old $5 drunkenness fine, plus $4.80 costs, plus $2.60 for extra paper work by the jailer, who collected the old time in Kent County jail.

Weaver Boy Hurt As Shell Explodes

WEAVER, Minn. (Special)—An exploding rifle shell, tossed into a bonfire, brought injury to Harold Olson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Echo Olson, here recently.

Harold was ice skating near here with a group of Weaver children. They built a fire to keep warm. Harold threw a .22 shell in-
