Weiskopf Opens Gap

TROON, Scotland (AP) — Long Tom Weiskopf stretched his lead to three strokes Thursday and still-cheerful Lee Trevino conceded that his hopes are gone for a third consecutive British Open Golf Championship.

"You can't win every time," Trevino said Thursday after his 73 left him 13 strokes off Weiskopf's blistering pace through two rounds of this ancient event.

"All I can do is play my best and try my hardest," the irrepressible Trevino said.

"I can't walk on water.

"I hope Tom wins it."

Tom obviously felt the same way.

"I won't consider myself a great player until I win a major championship," he said. "That's what this game is about—winning."

Weiskopf, who played his last four holes in a cold rain, demonstrated the discipline and controlled power that has enabled him to dominate the American tour in recent weeks as he shot a 67 and established a three stroke lead.

Weiskopf's rounds of 68 and 67—the best each day in this 102nd British Open—gave him a 135 total, a solid nine strokes under par on the 7,064 yards of subtle trouble that makes up the seaside Old Course at the Troon Golf Club.

The 30-year-old Weiskopf, who has won three times and hasn't finished lower than fifth in his last six starts, owned a healthy margin over Johnny Miller, the recently crowned U.S. Open champ, and Bert Yancey, tied for second at 138.

Miller had a 68 before a drizzling rain fell from gray Scottish skies and dampened the rest of the leaders. Yancey ran in a 20-foot birdie putt on the final hole—it hung on the left lip for a tantalizing moment before dropping in—for a second 69.

While Weiskopf's lead was impressive, he wasn't yet counting this ancient title his. Not by any means.

"I've played enough golf to know that three strokes, or even six, is nothing at this stage. Nothing. There's too many holes left," he said.

"I've got to continue to play good or these guys—if you've got guys like Miller and Jack Nicklaus and Yancey up there—they'll go right on by you."

Nicklaus, the pre-tourney favorite to win his third British Open title and break Bobby Jones record of 13 major championships, had an erratic 70—five birdies and three bogeys—and was alone at 139 as the tour-toughened Americans continued to hold the first four places.

"I just didn't play very well," Nicklaus said. "I drove the ball very poorly, and when I did get it in the fairway I'd miss the green."

Ireland's 48-year-old Christy O'Connor fashioned a 68 in the damp, chill weather and was next at 141.

Bernard Gallacher of Scotland had a 69 for 142 and was followed by three Englishmen at 143—veteran Neil Coles, Peter Butler and Brian Barnes. Barnes matched Weiskopf's 67 while Butler and Coles matched par 72.

American Lanny Wadkins had a 73 for 144 and South African Gary Player improved to a 69 for 145.

While the winds abated considerably from the gusty gales of Wednesday's opening round, old Troon still was tough enough to send some of the world's finest players reeling back into the pack.

Australian Bruce Crampton, the leading money-winner on the American tour this season, went to a 76 and 147. The group at 148, 13 strokes behind, included Arnold Palmer, defending champion Lee Trevino and England's Tony Jacklin.

The 43-year-old Palmer, who won the British Open on this same layout in 1962, took a horrendous seven on the par 3 eighth and finished with a 76.

"I just fell asleep a little," Palmer said.

He put his tee shot in a bunker on the 126-yard hole, the famed "Postage Stamp," and failed to get it out on his next two swings. He hit it across the green on his next stroke—his fourth—and it went into another sand trap. He got on in five and two-putted.

Jacklin took a two-stroke penalty for an improper drop and had a 73.

Trevino also had a 73 and conceded that his chances for a third consecutive title are gone.

"I hope Tom wins it," he said. "He's playing real good now. He'd be a good champion. He's just now found out how good he is."

"That's about as good as I can play," Weiskopf said after his round that included five birdies and no bogeys.

"I don't care if it's a pitch-and-putt course—and particularly in an Open championship and on a course like this—any time you can get around without a bogey it's a gratifying thing.

"I hit the ball very crisp with my irons. I'm playing about as good as any time this year from tee to green. I'm just not making that many mistakes."

The key to his round Thursday was his dominance of the par 5 holes. He birdied three of those four, and got two of the birdies after hitting one iron second shots on the green then two-putting.

The other, on the 577-yard 16th came after he wedged up to about eight feet and made the putt.

He also birdied the third hole from six feet and the seventh from 10 and missed 15 footers six times, once for an eagle.

Weiskopf, who credits a newfound maturity with his recently improved play, missed only three greens but saved par on all of them. Twice he chipped up close and ran in a 12 footer on the other.

The youthful Miller also got around without a bogey and played the tough back nine in three under par.

"I feel like I'm in good shape," he said. "I'm very relaxed. I'm not out there going from shot-to shot saying 'boy, I'm gonna win the tournament.'" There's too many holes left for that."

Yancey got his share of second by making birdies on two of his last three holes, punching a short iron to within six feet on the 16th the making the tough putt on the last hole.

The cutoff figure to qualify for the final two rounds was 152. One of the victims was Masters Champion Tommy Aaron who had a 153.

Fans Don't Leave Early When Dodgers' Don Sutton Pitches

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "All right," said Don Sutton, "I'd like to stop all the gossip."

The Los Angeles Dodgers' right-hander has had seemingly sure victory slip from his grasp twice this season—both times on two-out, ninth-inning home runs by Cincinnati.

So most of the more than 24,000 fans at Dodger Stadium stuck around for the last three outs Wednesday night. With two St. Louis Cardinals on base, Sutton struck out the side. After his error trying to pick a runner off second base put the tying run on second, he surprised Lou Brock with a fullcount curve ball for a called third strike and the final out.

Sutton, who said he's "not usually the emotional type," jumped for joy off the mound as though it were the winning game in the World Series. The first-place Dodgers won, 3-1.

"They didn't score this time," he said, referring to his ninth-inning hard luck. "It doesn't bother me but there are other things to talk about. I'm not going to change my style of pitching."

Sutton, who gave up seven singles, has had sharper outings. Although he tied his career high of 12 strikeouts, he needed 151 pitches and Manager Walt Alston said he came close to bringing in a relief pitcher in the ninth.

"Who do I think I am, Nolan Ryan?" Sutton asked. "I'm flabbergasted that I threw 151 pitches and still had good stuff in the ninth."

Catcher Joe Ferguson said Sutton's curve ball for the last strike "paralyzed Brock."

"Twenty-four thousand people were expecting a fast ball," Sutton said.

"Yeah," Dodger second baseman Davey Lopes said to no one in particular, "but I wouldn't have hit THAT curve even if I knew it was coming."

Sutton, who upped his record to 11-5, and Ferguson conferred between innings. "We weren't reliving anything," Ferguson said. "Donnie had enough of that ninth inning stuff so he wasn't going to give anything to hit."

Sutton's dozen strikeouts give him 130 for the season, tops in the National League and seven more than New York's Tom Seaver.

"I never thought of Sutton as a big strikeout pitcher," Alston said of the 6-foot-1, 185-pounder. "He has a pretty good fast ball but it's the other stuff, his curve and slider, that complement the fast ball."

World Endurance Race Next Weekend At Glen

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. (AP) —Ferrari of Italy and Matra of France, two government backed racing teams, bring their red hot battle for the world endurance title to Watkins Glen next weekend.

Trailing the French Matra in championship points, Ferrari has entered a three-car team for Saturday's six hour battle over the Glen's 3.81 mile Grand Prix road course. It is only the second time this season that the Italian company has fielded three cars for a race. They didn't even do it in the 24 Hours of LeMans.

At stake is the world championship for manufacturers, a title won by Ferrari last year for the first time since 1967. It is a nebulous crown to the average motorist, but it ranks supreme among the builders of the magnificently sculpted machinery capable of well over 200 miles per hour down the Mulsane straight at LeMans or the dog-leg front stretch at Daytona.

The series of 11 races includes stops in Italy, Belgium, Austria, Germany and France, among others, and two in the U.S. Ferrari got a late start in defense of its title by failing to enter the Daytona 24 hours.

Thus, the Italians come to the second U.S. race leading the championship points battle in one category but in real danger of losing out in another. It's because of the scoring system used in international endurance racing.

Matra, a government-sponsored car-building project, has raised the French tri-color in four races of the nine run thus far. Ferrari, which also receives some development money from the Italian treasury, has won only two events. But it has been a consistent second place finisher in events it didn't win.

Thus, Ferrari has accumulated 122 championship points to 104 for Matra. Under the rules, however, the teams can count only their eight best finishes in 11 races. That means, Matra can discount three races in which it received no points and Ferrari can discount one in which it failed to finish, plus one third and one second place.

That method of legal deduction leaves Matra with 104 countable points, Ferrari with 97. Not only that, the 11th race of the season originally was scheduled for Argentina. That date has been cancelled and may not be rescheduled anywhere.

Thus, with the distinct likelihood that the Glen race may be the final one of the series, Ferrari must win Saturday's six-hour race if it is to repeat as champion. The fact that the race carries prize money of $30,000 hardly bears mentioning.

Segels Still Unbeaten In Rec Loop Roundball

Segels maintained its undefeated status with a 61-54 victory over the Lakers in Summer Rec Basketball League play. In other games, the Knicks beat the Braves 48-48, the Bucks beat the Bullets 63-42, and the Piehutas topped the Celtics 83-31.

For Segels, now 4-0, J. Black tossed in 24 points to lead all scorers. Jim Bowen scored 23 for the losing Lakers, who dropped back to second with a 3-1 mark.

The Piehutas, also 3-1, were led by Dave Allenson's 19 points, and Mike Piehuta's contribution of 18 markers. Tim Zdarko was the only man to hit double figures for the Celtics with 10 points.

Jeff McClement hit the hoop for 22 points and Al Torrance dropped in 18 points to lead the Knicks over the Braves. Scott McDonald's 18 points topped the losers.

Rob Young's 19-point output paced the Bucks in their contest against the Bullets. Terry Haberbush and Willie LeMeur led the Bullets with 11 points each.

Another slate of league games is scheduled for next Monday, July 15.

Fosse Starts Rally

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Ray Fosse's ninth-inning home run, his third of the baseball season, triggered a four-run rally and led the Oakland Athletics to a come-from-behind 8-4 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers Thursday.

Following Fosse's homer off Jim Slaton, 6-7, the A's loaded the bases on two walks and a single. Reggie Jackson then beat out a slow grounder, driving in Ted Kubiak with the sixth Oakland run before Deron Johnson hit a two-run single.

Oakland had tied the score in the eighth when Jackson singled, driving in Bert Campaneris, who was aboard with a walk. Johnson then hit a sacrifice fly to score Sal Bando, also on with a walk off Slaton.

In the third, Campaneris reached base on an error by shortstop Tim Johnson and Jackson blasted his 19th homer.

A three-run homer off Vida Blue by Don Money in the fifth inning put Milwaukee in front.

A walk and a single by Dave May in the sixth chased Blue.

Teams from the International League's east, west, and central division will meet in games at 2, 4, and 6 p.m.—all on the small diamond.

The senior division will meet in the day's only activity on the big diamond at 6 p.m.

Boston Teaches Clyde A Lesson In Baseball

BOSTON (AP) — Luis Aparicio singled to help build a Boston run with his 10,000th at-bat in the major leagues and Tommy Harper crashed a tie-breaking home run, leading the Red Sox to a 5-2 victory over David Clyde and the Texas Rangers Thursday night.

Harper's homer, his fourth of the baseball season, came with one out in the fifth inning and sent Clyde, the Rangers' 18-year-old bonus baby, to his second loss in three decisions.

The Red Sox added three runs in the eighth inning on Carl Yastrzemski's 12th homer of the year off reliever Bill Gogolewski.

Aparicio became only the eighth player in the history of the game to reach the 10,000 at-bat plateau when he stepped to the plate in the first inning following Harper's leadoff bunt single.

He responded to the standing ovation by the Boston fans by lining a single up the middle that sent Harper to third. Yastrzemski followed by grounding into a double play as Harper scored.

The Rangers tied it in the top of the fifth on Jim Mason's triple and Dave Nelson's single off Marty Pattin, 9-11, who scattered six Texas hits for the victory.

It was the eighth time in eight meetings that the U.S. men had beaten their German rivals, but it was their closest competition yet, the previous low margin being 22 points in 1970 at Stuttgart.

For the German girls, it was their fifth victory in six meetings against the American women.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals said Wednesday they have traded veteran defensive back Dale Hackbart to the Denver Broncos of the National Football League for a future draft choice.

Hackbart, 35, an 11-season NFL veteran, is a former University of Wisconsin quarterback drafted in the league's fifth round by the Green Bay Packers in 1960.

He was traded to the Washington Redskins in 1961 and later spent two seasons in the Canadian Football League before signing as a free agent and playing five seasons with the Minnesota Vikings.

Hackbart was traded to the Cardinals in 1971 along with linebacker Mike McGill in exchange for tight end Bob Brown and defensive back Nate Wright.

We're in danger of drowning in our own guk. Pollutants, contaminants have choked the life from an alarming number of our lakes and streams; a threat to human life for the future!

Time? There is no time. Suddenly it's all too apparent—almost too late. Yet, there is hope. Trout Unlimited, a non-profit organization started by leading conservationists, is dedicated to buying time.

Trout Unlimited, with 98 chapters in 30 states, means to save the clear water we now have—and to work for corrective action. T. U. has an impressive record—nationally and locally. But T. U. cannot stand on laurels. Help is needed!

You—as one person—can join this action organization and involve yourself. A $10 membership fee enrolls you in the national organization and your local Kinzua Chapter, Warren, Pa.

Make waves! It's a clear case of survival!
